MAGELLANIC PREMIUM
OF THE
AMERICAN PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY.

This premium arises from a donation made to the Society by John Hyacinth de Magellan, of London, the interest of which is annually to be disposed of in premiums, to be adjudged by the Society, according to certain regulations, to the author of the best discovery, or most useful invention relating to Navigation, Astronomy or Natural Philosophy (mere natural history only excepted).

According to the conditions prescribed by the donor, the premium shall consist of an oval plate of solid standard gold, of the value of ten guineas, with appropriate inscriptions, &c.

The candidate shall send his discovery, invention or improvement, addressed to the President or one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, free of postage or other charges, and shall distinguish his performance by some motto, device, or other signature. He shall also send a sealed letter, containing the same motto, device or signature, and subscribed with the real name and place of residence of the author, which letter shall not be opened unless the candidate be successful.

No discovery, invention or improvement shall be entitled to this premium which has been already published, or for which the author has been publicly rewarded elsewhere.

The candidate shall communicate his discovery, invention or improvement, either in the English, French, German or Latin language.

Philadelphia, July 1, 1857.
